“ I was so sad to hear about Ann. She worked with my father for many years and Ann always spent time with me when I came to the office. She treated me not like a child but as someone worth her time. Later, when I was doing some projects for the office, Ann was endlessly patient with my questions. She made me feel valued — like a colleague despite how little I knew or understood. She was a great role model for me in my career, especially when new people joined my organization. I’m grateful for the time she invested in me. My thoughts and prayers are with Ann’s family.
