“ Sonjia lived down the street From me. We were in the same graduating class. She was a majorette and taught me to twirl. Becoming a majorette was a dream of mine, and I was a majorette because she was kind enough to help me. Remembering the good times. I am so sorry for your loss.

Sonjia and I were classmates and friends in school as well as in our early adult years. We had some good times together. We had reconnected through Facebook and communicated within the last year. So very sorry for her loss. Sending my deepest sympathy to her family.
